True Cost of Impact Fees Displays the Need for New State Law

In September, priority legislation will become effective law adding stronger transparency and disclosure requirements to the process of implementing or updating impact fees, the one-time up-front fee assessed for the claimed purpose of funding infrastructure related to new development.

Senate Bill 1883, by Senator Paul Bettencourt, was signed into law by the Governor in June. Supported by the Texas Association of Builder, the Dallas BA, and other local HBAs, SB 1883 amends Chapter 395 of the Local Government Code. Beginning Sept. 1, municipalities will be required to meet the bill's standards.

Approval of the imposition of a new or updated impact fee by a political subdivision will require an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the members of its governing body.

The legislation also puts a limitation on when an impact fee can be approved or updated, setting that three years must have passed from the date an impact fee was adopted or most recently increased before the existing fee can be increased.

Cities will also be required to make use of an advisory committee, as opposed to a city plan commission, and the committee must be composed of not less than 50 percent of membership being representatives from the real estate, development, or building industries.

Just as important as the benchmarks for the approval process are two key measures of disclosure.

An ability for stakeholders to review the engineering study that impact fee rates are based on is provided via the requirement that the capital improvements plan and land use assumptions, including any proposed amended impact fee per service unit, must be made available to the public at least 60 days before the date of the first notice of a public hearing.

SB 1883 also includes the requirement for an independent financial audit to be conducted before any increase of an existing impact fee. The audit covers the amount of funds that have been collected per service area, the amount of interest accumulated on the fees, a list of projects that were part of the previous plan that were not constructed, and several other telling factors.

When considering the consequences that impact fees have on housing affordability and attainability, the provisions set by SB 1883 are more than fair.

In parts of the Dallas BA service area, it is not uncommon for a municipality to assess impact fees totaling in excess of $20,000 per home. But the actual cost of the impact fees to the homebuyer is actually much higher. Due to the cost to finance the difference in the fee, as well as that new total being assessed interest over the life of the home mortgage.

Proposed water and wastewater impact fees in a local municipality include a service area rate equaling more than $25,000 per home.

When calculating the current roadway impact fee, and the cost of financing that additional cost over the life of the mortgage, the additional price of the monthly payment can be more than $230. In current interest rate talk, those impact fees can cost the homebuyer more than $80,000.

And it is important to remember that it is the homebuyer who ultimately pays for these increases. It is also that homebuyer who will also be paying the monthly utility fees.

Dallas BA's Director of Government Affairs and Dallas BA members joined TAB and members of other local HBAs in offering expert testimony on SB 1883.

received the Texas Association of Builders' Philanthropist of the Year award and D Magazine's Best Builders Legacy Award.

Long before the Texas Builders Foundation was organized in 2010, Tommy Ford recognized that the building industry was facing a critical shortage of construction trades professionals. He played a pivotal role in educating Texans on the benefits of becoming construction trades professionals and provided scholarships to students working toward construction trades certifications, licenses or degrees.

He contributed $10,000 to the National Housing Endowment for establishment of an educational scholarship to support green building education, and contributed to the Press Club of Dallas Foundation as an underwriter of the Boone Pickens Roast, a charity fundraiser. Tommy had collaborated with Pickens on the Mesa Vista Ranch in the Eastern Texas Panhandle, showcasing innovation in sustainable ranch architecture.

Tommy's charitable accomplishments also included support of faith-based outreach ministries across Amarillo and Dallas and the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. He also worked with Dallas Fire-Rescue to donate sprinklers for low income homes, a contribution that was then matched by the Dallas BA's Custom Builders/Remodelers Council.

Tommy was active in the home building industry at all levels. He was elected an Honored Life Director of the Dallas BA in 2000, and was also a state and national life director. He was instrumental in crafting a program for compliance with state legislated energy standards, serves on several regional and national code committees. He served for more than a decade on the North Central Texas Council of Governments' Regional Codes Coordinating Committee. This group of DFW area building officials and industry professionals compose regional amendments to ICC codes that result in codes that reflect local building practices and foster regional continuity. Tommy's advocacy efforts on the RCCC alone saved builders thousand of dollars over the years.

Tommy got his start in the industry at age 7, cleaning up job sites for his father, a home builder in West Texas. Tommy Ford Construction was founded in 1965 in Vernon, TX. Tommy spent many years working in the oil field, but wanted to get back to what he loved, which was building homes. He began working out of his truck and took on whatever jobs he could to support his family. After several years working in Vernon and the surrounding area, he and his family moved to Amarillo in 1969. He served as president of the Texas Panhandle Builders Association in 1988.

Former Dallas BA Executive Officer Phil Crone noted that Tommy Ford embodied everything the Hall of Honor stands for: integrity, foresight, generosity and a deep commitment to building better homes and better communities across Texas. "Tommy never sought the spotlight. He never needed to. His legacy lives on in the codes he helped write, those he mentored and the high standards of care he quietly modeled every day."

TAB establishes flood relief fund

In the aftermath of recent floods that devastated the Hill Country, the Texas Association of Builders (TAB) is collecting donations through its Texas Builders Foundation.

Earlier this summer heavy rainfall brought massive flash flooding to the central part of the state. Water levels from the Guadalupe, Llano, Colorado, Concho and San Gabriel Rivers rose rapidly, some reaching over 30 feet above flood stage and many creeks and lakes have overflowed as well.

Approximately 135 fatalities resulted, and Kerr County was declared a federal disaster area.

The Texas Builders Foundation gave an immediate $25,000 donation to the Community Foundation of the Texas Hill Country, where the Hill Country Builders Association has asked for all monetary donations to be directed.

TAB contacted home builders associations in the affected counties (Hill Country BA, Greater New Braunfels BA, Greater San Antonio BA, HBA of Greater Austin and the HBA of San Angelo) to learn what the situation is like in each area, and how help can be offered to each community.

The Dallas BA made a $1,000 contribution to the fund.

Members are encouraged to contribute to TAB's Hill Country/Central Texas flood relief fund through the Texas Builders Foundation website. If you wish to contribute by check, please indicate you are supporting this effort.

"The Texas Association of Builders and the Texas Builders Foundation appreciate your support and contributions during this difficult time," said TAB Chief Executive Officer Scott Norman. "Our hearts and prayers go out to all those affected by this tragedy."
